Adventures in Entrepreneurialism:

David R. King, Venture Partner
Quaker BioVentures

Before he was investing in early-stage companies, David King was running them.

A serial entrepreneur, David King was one of the founders of BioRexis Pharmaceutical Corp. which started at the Science Center in 2002. Before being acquired by Pfizer in 2007, BioRexis raised $38 million from several venture funds. Now a Venture Partner with Quaker BioVentures, David is on the other side of the table, working with the one of the funds whose first investment was BioRexis.

Prior to BioRexis, David served as the President of Delsys Pharmaceutical Corporation, acquired by Elan, and was CEO of Principia, acquired by Human Genome Sciences.
